Washington, September 18 .- A gentleman who holds a high rank among the readousters of Virginia is authority for the statement that there are very serious dissensions in his party and that these dissensions bid fair to bring Mahone to grief. It appears that Senator Riddleberger and Governor Cameron are taking no active part in the pending campaign. Next to Mahone these two men are more influential than any other readjuster leaders, but at present they are keeping themselves in the back ground. They are chafing under the tyrannical bossism of Mahone. The latter is not only exacting and brutal in his demands, but he is intensely selfish in the use of his powder. Riddleberger is represented to be irritated by the way in which his own advice and wishes are studiously ignored in matters relating to federal patronage. For a man having before him six years in the United States senate, he thinks he ought to and recognition in these things. He is not satisfied with being the mere, 'me too' of Mahone, and it is reported that he is now disposed to paddle his own canoe. Governor Cameron's dissatisfaction arises from Mahone's constant imperious dictation in tate affairs of Virginia. Mahone treats these affairs as though he were governor of the state and insists on monopolizing the use of the state. sists on monopolizing the use of the state patronage as well as the federal. Such are the reasons given for the lukewaraness of Riddleberger and Cameron. They are the best stump speakers in the readjuster ranks, and for this sort of work they have been largely used by Mahone in previous campaigns. The rank and file of the readjusters are becoming aware of the dissensions among the leaders and the situation is growing. the leaders and the situation is growing more and more embarrassing to the boss.

RECEIVING EARNEST ATTENTION.

WASHINGTON, September 18.—The question of the assessment of the department employees for political purposes, which has been raised by the recent circular of General Mahone to the Virginians in the departments is receiving earnest consideration of the civil service commission-ers. One of the latter, Judge Thoman, was asked to-night by an associated press reporter what action, if any, the commissioners would take in relation to the Mahone circular. He replied: "As far as it is within the power of the commission to see that the provisions of the civil service law are strictly adhered to, the civil service law are strictly adhered to, it is their purpose to do so. I have no hesitency in saying that to assess dues upon clerks and employes of the government for the purpose of maintaining a political organization in this city, or of aiding political parties in the states, is an absolute violation of sections 11 and 14 of the civil service act. Whether the circular demanding money of them comes from a U. S. senator, a member of congress, or a department clerk, its author should be dealt with in a manner that would show that the law is not a collection of meaningless words. It is undoubtedly the duty words. It is undoubtedly the duty of the head of each executive department to assist the commission a seeing that the law is vindicated, and I

REVENUERASCALITY

Charges of Malfenance, Crooked Arrests and False Fee Collecting. Washington, September 18.—The commissioner of internal revenue, has received a report from Revenue Agent Neustrade, in reference to the investigation of the charges of emissions of the charges of emissions. bezzlement by ex-Deputy Collector W. Savage, of the New Orleans district. The report says the charges were based upon infor-mation received from Deputy Collector Lamar, that Savage acted in bad faith in issuing his individual receipts, in lieu of stamps, to a number of persons without accounting for the money so collected. Agent Neustrade states that the total amount of money collected by Savage in this way was $141. He says that the marshal and United States attorney are evidently anxious to establish the criminality of Savage, while Postmaster Dunn is of opinion that Savage had merely been the tool of ex-Collector Pleasant, who he regarded as the real culprit. Agent Neustrade farther says that P. M. Dunn's assertion is not, in his opinion, fair or unbiased, but inasmuch as he was the person who first denounced Savage, and as the charges of embezzlement were proved to have been based on facts, the agent deemed it his duty to inform the department that Dunn

The report says that the charge of fraudulent practices, as far as relates to the affairs of the internal revenue service, is entirely without founda-tion. Agent Powers reports, however, three cases in which he says there is evidence that there was an attempt at fraud on the part of

there was an attempt at fraud on the part of U. S. deputy marshals, and he says that owing to the fact that deputy marshals are looked upon and spoken of as revenue officers in that part of the country, the fraudulent practices were ascribed to the internal revenue officers. The first of the three cases referred to was the capture of an illicit distillery on June 12th, 1883, by Deputy Collector Stalbrand and a party at the foot of Bald Knob, in Pickens county, which was reported as being owned and operated by Youngblood. A fifty gallon copper still and worm were destroyed on this raid. In this case the informer was an Irishman named Baldwin, living in that locality. After destroying the still, Stalbrand went to Prices registered distillery, near where the capture was made stillery, near where the capture was made, and asked storekeeper Looper to pay Baldwin for his services as informer. He (Stalbrand) not having funds with him, neither Looper nor Price, the owners of the distillers as it was quite dark, and impossible to make a careful examination of the premises. The suspicions of Looper and Price were confirmed by the strange conduct of Deputy Marshal John Fisher, who arrived at the place shortly after the select tectred the signal office. An investigation will be made in regard to it, which will likely be of as much value as that made of the Jeannette. Something, however, must be done for the Greeley party, who will run after the seizure, and who appeared very angry that Stalbrand had been there be-fore him and destroyed the still, his language and conduct leading the listeners to believe that the still was only a plan to obtain the fees incidental in such cases, by arresting the suspected persons, and for the numerous wit-nesses. An employe of Price also said that tion of the still was a sham the beer destroyed was only spent beer with a little meal mixed with it and that the flake

a little meal mixed with it and that the flake stand was useless, as it was full of holes. These facts having been brought to the notice of Stalbrand, the informer was not paid, so that the government was at no expense. Agent Powers says he was informed that Baldwin said he had been employed by Deputy Marshal Fisher to set up the still, the latter stating that he would see that it was not injured much, and that it could be used again. He says also that other evidence can be obtained to show a conspiracy in this case. The second case was that of an illicit distillery, captured by Deputy Collector Ensor and party, on July 17th, 1883, near Winetimes, Pickens county, where a copper still and Pickens county, where a copper still and worm were destroyed. Ensor discovered that this was a put up job, and refused to pay for the services of the informer. Deputy Marshal the services of the informer. Deputy Marshal John Fisher was one of the party in this raid. There were suspicions of fraud in another case, the capture of a distillery by Deputy Collector Ensor and party on August 9th, 1883, but not enough to prevent the payment of ten Jollars to the informer for his services. Agent Powers says he believes that the planting of each of these stills was instigated by the same parties, and he says he was informed that a proposition had been made to A. J. Walker by Deputy Marshal Fisher to put up a still as a plant, Fisher saying that Walker could make ten dellars and put the still up again, and work is three times before court time, and that he (Fisher) would see that there were only two or three holes cut in it each time, and that any old still would do. Powers says that n seeing that the law is that have no doubt they will."

He says that out same offense by the two Fisher brothers, who are both deputy marshals. He says that out of twenty-eight captures of illicit stills in South Carolina since January last, the three mentioned are the only ones about which there is any suspicion of fraud. The greatest cause of complaint in that locality, he says, is the great number of trivial arrests made by the deputy marshals for the obvious purpose of obtaining fees. He says also that there seems to be a great many warrants out in the hands of the deputy marshals in the cases that have been in abeyance for some time, and a great-majority seem as for some time, and a great-majority seem as for some time, and a great-majority seem as matters of little importance, as so many are dismissed upon hearing, owing often to their being so old that the parties have forgotten the circumstances connected with them. He suggests the procuring of an order from court calling in all warrants now out, and reissuing them after they have been carefully investi-

What He has to Say About Several Campaigns Ahead -Mr. Tilden,

Indianapolis, Ind., September 17.—Ex-Governor Hendricks reached home to-day from his brief campaign in Iowa, and was seen by a reporter, with whom he briefly talked about the trip. In answer to the question, "What can you say of the probable result of Iowa?" Mr. Hendricks declined to make a lowa? Mr. Hendricks decided to make a decided answer. He explained he had made only three speeches, and his range of observation was too limited to qualify him to form a satisfactory conclusion. He found democrats from all parts of the state, however, most sanguine over the situation, expecting not only to make serious inroads upon the republican but really believing that they would elect their own ticket. Mr. Hendricks's impression was that the democrats had a chance of success, but he is not inclined to be enthu-siastic. He was asked about his visit to Tilden, and said that while in Saratoga he was constantly urged to visit Mr. Tilden, but uniformly declined to do so, on the ground that the action would be misrepresented. However, while in New York city, en route to Connecticut to attend to some law business, Mr. Tilden sent for him twice. Under these circumstances he decided to see him, thinking that to refuse would be discourteous, and he went to Greystone. Politics was not menwent to Greystone. Folitics was not men-tioned between them till just as the visitor was about to depart, when a third person, supposed by some to be John Kelly himself, especially as the New York Star, Kelly's pa-per, was the only one in New York that pub-lished anything which even purported to be a report of the conversation, casually and half jestingly remarked upon Mr. Tilden's a report of the conversation, cashing is a report of the conversation, and is in the conversation of the candidacy. Evidently the old man did not consider it possible for him old man did not consider it possible for him either to seek the nomination or to test the choice at the polls unsucçessfuily. Mr. Hendricks says he believes he truly represented Tilden's position and desire in his Council Bluffs speech when he said: "He is not a candidate, and I believe does not desire to be made one. His home in the country has all the attractions that natural beauty and elegant culture can give it. With it he seems contented and happy, and undisturped by the gant culture can give it. With it he seems contented and happy, and undisturbed by the contests of ambifon. The care of cattle and the cultivation of fruit trees seem more agree able to him than the cares of office." He found Mr. Tilden enjoying excellent health, and himself spent a pleasant day, having been most cordially received. Mr. Hendricks does not intend to take part in the Ohio campaign. Senator Harrison leaves for Iowa to-morrow night, billed for five speeches next week.

THE MYSTERY OF ROSE AMBLER STILL THICKENING.

Breaking of the Siender Clues by Which the Detect ives Hoped to Fasten Knowledge of the Crime Upon the Ungailant Lover-My ous Strangers Vanishing, Etc.,

NEW YORK, Septemper 18 .- The interest in the murder of Rose Ambler is no longer confined to a little Connecticut town, but has become a national topic. The postponement of the investigation until next Thursday, in order to give Professor White time to analyze the bloodstain on the Lewis carriage, has been taken advantage of by enterprising detectives to spin many new theories, most of which come to naught even in the telling, and none of which give promise of clearing up the mystery. The detectives who went into Naugutuck Valley have returned to Bridgeport acknowledging disappointment. They have been industriously canvassing Birmingham, Derby and Shelton, the villages which William Lewis, Rose's lover, visits daily. In addition to the four affidavits there outlined the detectives have been able to obtain other statements from more or less responsible persons tending to criminate Lewis, but interviews with them and with the county officers, by whom they are employed and to whom they report, show plainly that these investigators are in anything else than a contented and satisfied mood. These latest clues, which at the start promised so much, bid fair to come to an end almost as barren as those which inculpated— each in turn and separately—Boston White, the negro, John Pierce, the railroad employe, Michael Heslin, the three-fingered lrishman and Norman Ambler, the girl's divorced hus-band. One after another each of these men were suspected, surrounded with criminating circumstances, placed under surveillance and prepared for arrest, and in turn each suspi-cion was dismissed and each suspect fitted out with an irreproachable record.

ENCIRCLING WILLIAM LEWIS.
But during all this time there have been expressions of opinion that some guilt some-now must attach to William Lewis, the insipid fellow who sent his sweetheart unpro tected toward her home over a lonely country road in the night-time. Twice was his record searched, twice was be declared innocent. The state's attorney and the coroner questioned him. The jury rigidly examined im. The detectives confronted him with charges. The state attorney and the coroner, the jury and the detectives all dismissed him from their presence, with the statement that not a scintilla of convincing evidence was obtainable against him. An eccentric stranger was brought into the case. But the theory which involved him was the theory of a volunteer detective, and hey of the official household sneered and tabooed it. Two or three witnesses came forward to testify that they had seen a mysterious stranger loitering on the Oronoque road, in Rose Ambler's homeward path, and within an hour or less of the time when William Lewis avers that she bade him farewell at the grape arbor on that fateful Sunday night a fortnight The official detectives were impressed with the idea that they, too, must have a mysterious stranger. They claimed to have found one, but he was not produced. Their tardy pace intensified excitement. Strat ford and the sturdy honest farmer folk, ford and the sturdy honest farmer folk, in town meeting assembled, of fered a reward of $1,000 for the criminal's apprehension. The mysterious stranger theory forthwith disappears and William Lewis is brought to the rack again, but the pursuit loiters while the public demands a bigger reward, hoping so to induce quicker and better work. State Attorney Fessenden and Governor Waller agree that the reward shall be $4,000 instead of $1,000, and the announcement comes from official circles that nouncement comes from official circles that an arrest is not to be longer delayed. E. Woodward, of Shelton, both of whom keep country grocery stores and receive daily visits from Lewis, were chief among the witnesses who promised most im-portant testimony. When originally seen by the detectives these gentlemen were quoted as authority for statements which would have one far toward criminating Lewis. The story en attributed to Mr. Durand was as follows "William Lewis came into my store on the day that the body of Rose Ambier was found, and before I had heard any rumors of the crime. He seemed much depressed, and, in reply to my inquiry as to the cause of his sol-emn manner, he said: 'Why, haven't you heard that my girl was murdered last night? Then Lewis told in a detailed way the story of the crime, something after the way I read it later in the newspapers. He spoke of it later in the newspapers. He spoke of his intended marriage and professed to have loved the girl very dearly. When I asked if he had any suspicions as to who the perpetrators were he said: 'Yes, there are two negroes in stratford whom I suspect, and if they ever come across my track I will shoot them.' During his conversation he shed tears.'' This was the story the detectives expected to incorporate into Mr. Durand's sflidavit, but Mr. Durand wavered when asked to make oath to it. Mr. Durand's affidavit, but Mr. Durand wavered when asked to make oath to it. The most important point that this alleged talk by Lewis was on the day that the body of Rose Ambler was found, was almost wholly abandoned when the time came to sign the prepared affidavit. If it was a latter day the testimony was practically useless, if on this particular day it would go far toward a conviction, for William Lewis, was a dozen witnesses have testified left. as a dozen witnesses have testified, left Stratford at 3 o'clock on that morning, four hours or more before the young woman's body was discovered by the Raven stream.

Grocer Woodward's testimony held out but little better, and the affidavit, as finally prepared, contains virtually nothing of importance aside from the statement that Lewis loudly proclaimed that he could name the murderer or murderers, for Mr. Woodward quotes Lewis as saying: "One man did not commit the deed, for Rose was too strong, and one man could not handle her. I have felt of her and I know what she can do." Mr. Woodward adds that subsequently Lewis denounced him for having repeated this statement, and declared that he had never used such language, but finally, in softened tones, said: "I could tell you all about this murder if I had not been advised to keep my mouth shut. I would rather tell you than any other man." Grocer Woodward inti-mated that he was holding back evidence of a most startling character, an intimation, however that the affidavit gather-ing detectives have found unfruitfui. ing detectives have found unfruitful. The doleful countenances of the detectives to-night show that Grocer Woodward and Grocer Durand did not weaken more than did others who were to condense convicting evidence into affidavit form. One Na man has been found who testifies that Wil-liam Lewis declared that he could prove that the murderer was Norman Ambler, Rose's divorced husband, and other people are quoting Lewis as attributing the crime to Boston White and a colored companion.

The mention of the name of Norman

Ambler gives rise to a threat which that per Ambler gives rise to a threat which that person is said to have uttered since his innocence was established by an alibi. "William Lewis must be careful how he talks about me," so the threat runs, "or I will make it awful hot for him. He and I have talked about Rose, and I know from his own lips that he was anxious to get the girl out of the way after he had won his victory by stealing her from me." Norman Ambler is now at his home near New Milford, but it is intimated that a long statement sworn to by him is in the possession of Coroner Holt.

But one opinion was expressed as to the cotton crop in their several sections, viz.: that it was for this year the completest failure since the war. Drouth and the caterpillar had both done their work too effectually to hope for an average of even one-third of a crop. The crops in the upper portion of Worth and lower Dooly, along the river, were said to be in better condition, but even in these sections 50 per cent was deemed a liberal estimate. There is no bottom crop to speak of. Jackson, C. J.—1. Where a levy was made under an attachment before judgment, and a claim interposed thereto, the issue is whether the property levied on is that of the defend-ant in attachment or that of the claimant; the issue so made is not affected by a subse-quent judgment which did not cause the levy, though illegal. If the property be found subject to the attaching creditor, he must get a good judgment before he can get his mor and if that which he has be not good, he must get another. Code $\cong 3323, 3327, 3379.

(a.) We are inclined to think the judgment

btained in this case was substantially good, hough irregular, but it is unnecessary to deide that point.

2. Where interrogatories show no venue as to place of execution, they are not admissible, on proper objection thereto, unless some good reason can be shown which renlers them admissible, notwithstanding the defect. None such was shown here. (a.) That the same interrogatories had been rejected for the same reason on a former trial did not make them admisible on another

(b.) The object of notice in writing of the objections to the execution of interrogatories is that the other party may move to continue to have the intergatories re-executed, if he deems them material; if he deems them inmaterial, that he may try; in either case, that he may act advisedly and without surprise. The notice is put on the interrogatories in writing that there may be no mistake and that the court may be certified thereof. When, therefore, objection had been made to interrogatories on the ground that no venue was shown, and they were rejected on that ground, on a second trial of the same case at a subsequent term, the objection will not be overruled because notice thereof was not given in writing.

(c.) Especially is this so where the party who did not take out the interrogatories offered them in evidence. Code & 3888, 3892;

BUSINESS RECORD OF BOTH HOUS-

The Precedings in the Senat-The Doings House The Introduction of New Matter s the Passage of Bills on a Third ReacingThe Reports of Committees-Points.

The senate met at the usual hour, President Boynton presiding. Prayer was offered by Senator McDonald of the fifth district.

The session was opened with a spirited discussion on a senate amendment to a house bill, in which the house had refused to concur. The bill was to provide prohibition in the county of Berrien, and had been amended in the senate by a provision that the matter should first be submitted to the voter o the county for ratification. The amendment was proposed by Mr. Knight, who is from Berrien county. He is now at home sick. The question was on a motion of Mr. McDonald to recede from the senate amendment.

Mr. Peeples spoke in favor of the passage of the bill without the amendment. He said he was willing as a usual thing to act in accordance with the wishes of the senator representing the section to be affected by any local laws. That, however, was not alone a local law. The situation was a peculiar one. Berrien was bounded by several other counties, all of which except one had adopted prohibitory laws, while Berrien, sitting in the middle, had no such laws, and grog shops were stuck along the county line, thus deteating the object of the law in the adjoining counties. There is a worthless floating population in Berrien which could Mr. Peeples spoke in favor of the passage of the adjoining counties. There is a wortness floating population in Berrien which could override the wishes of the good people, and he thought it was right and proper that the legislature should take the matter in hand.

He spoke of the very large number of bar rooms in Berrien county, and the disorder that prevails on Saturdays and Sundays among the negroes who collect at the little towns and country barrooms.

towns and country barrooms. Mr. Gustin spoke in answer to Mr. Peeples.
He said that the question was a purely local matter, and that it should be submitted to the people of the county as their senator had requested. He believed in being governed by the opinions of the representative who was responsible to his people. Mr. DuBignon made a very strong speech in favor of refusing to recede. Mr. Knight in favor of refusing to recede. Mr. Knight had been honored by the people of his county in various positions of trust. He was their trusted representative and was in a position to know their wants. He had gone home and was upon his death bed and propped up by pillows. He had penned a request that his amendment be passed. To refuse to grant his request was to say to him "the last act of your life is directed at the morals and good order of your county. He for one was willing to say your county. He for one was willing to say it by his act, and he would vote against the motion to recede from the amendment.

The motion to recede was lost by a vote of Mr. Polbill, of the finance committee, and Mr. Meldrim, of the committee on corporations, made reports on bills.

To prescribe road commissioners for the several counties of this state. Passed. The bill to prescribe the manner of making and working public roads was taken up. The committee had reported a substitute. The bill was a very important one, proposing as it did to make a number of very radical changes in the road laws of the state. The changes in the road laws of the state. The bill was taken up by sections. The first section provided that all public roads should be not less than twenty nor more than thirty feet wide and that the roads should be measured and the that the roads should be measured and the distances and forks marked with proper mile posts and finger boards. The management of the roads is put in the hands of a "road court." The manner of opening roads is fixed and the plan for assessing damages is

The bill provided that all persons between the ages of sixteen and sixty should be subject to road duty, but that the payment of three dollars could be made in lieu of such work. The portion of the bill in reference to the age at which a person is liable for provoked a lengthy discussion, pending which the morning session adjourned. In the afternoon session the bill was tabled and the entire afternoon was devoted to read-

Mr. Falligant of Chatham—A bill to regulate the quality of gas.

Mr. Hoge, of Fulton, said that this was a remarkable bill, and he doubted if any man in the house understood it. He took the bill and said that he readily discovered the true reason for its introduction. It was in the handwriting of the attorney of a set of gas companies which are trying to hold a monopoly in Georgia.

Mr. Falligant said he had offered the bill with due consideration and after careful investigation.

He asked Mr. Hoge if he was not the attor-

He asked Mr. Hoge if he was not the attorney of a certain gas company opposed to the passage of the bill.

Mr. Hoge—I am and I understand the object of this bill. Mr. Falligant said he was not interested in any gas company in any way either as attorney or as stockholder. The opposition had come from a quarter where he had expected it. The only object of the bill was to protect the life and health of the people. There are certain kinds of gas which escape and cannot be detected by the smell and prove very destructive to life. The coal gas contains only 10 per cent of this destructive element, while the cent of this destructive element, while the water gas, which this bill would exclude, con-tains over 20 per cent, in some cases as much as 28 or 29 per cent. This thing is not to be puffed away with a breath, especially by one who is interested in its defeat.

Mr. Hoge said that the cry that the new gas was not safe was only a trick of the old gas companies. The new gas has been tried in eighty towns and cities in this country and has given satto habitual drunkards.

Mr. Wood of Walker favored the bill.
Mr. Pringle of Washington supported the bill in a speech setting forth the evils of the present system. He declared that it is the duty of the state to protect the women and children, who are victimized as well as the men who have become slaves to whisky. We propose to establish an inebriate asylum for men who are helpless in the thraldom of intemperance. An asylum of brick and mortar may be good enough in its place, but we want to make this whole state an asylum for the safety and happiness of humanity, from the Chattahoochee on the west, to Savannah on the east, from as to the nature and effect of the bill.

Mr. Drewry, of Spalding, said that the committee on bygiene and sanitation knew no old company or new company but was actuated by an honest purpose to protect the public from dangerous gases. They had analyses from the best chemists in the state to prove that there are gases made for lighting purposes which contain so made for lighting purposes which contain so large a per cent of deadly elements that they should not be permitted to be used no matter what their lighting power may be. To ex-clude such gases was his only desire and the only purpose of the committee. Pending the discussion, the house adjourned to

It seems that Fulton county is to have a egistration law. An adjournment next Saturday night is ow thought impossible Mr. Russell, of Clarke, worked with great zeal to secure the passage of the bill to appro-priate $3,000 to repair the State university buildings. He has taken a deep interest in all legislation affecting the university.

The bill to prevent the running of Vineville, Bibb county, was introduced by Mr. Harris, of Bibb, and has on it his name and that of Mr. Bartlett. Mr. Lawton's name was incorrectly connected with the bill in yesterday's issue.

One of the clearest headed men in the house is Mr. Irwin, of Cobb. He is not among the frequent speech makers but whenever he does talk his staple is common sense and his views commend themselves to favorable conideration.

The bill passed yesterday to amend the act apportioning the land script fund between the white and colored universities was by Mr. Wilson, of Camden, one of the colored men of the house. It provides that where any member of the legislature fails to nominate a colored student from his county to the Atlanta university the trustees of the school may do so. This is done to keep the full quota of students.

"Rescue the Perishing!"

It was a perishing baby. The pale, puny child lay almost lifeless on the pillow, the victim of malaria and summer complaint. The old nurse who dropped in to give the dying child her last blessing happened to ask. "Have you tried PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER?" They had not thought of it, but got some at once. Next day baby was better Before the week was out he was well. Pan KILLER saved him.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It'relieves the little sufferer at once: it produces natural, quiet leep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "brgiht as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diar-rhoea, whether arising from teething or other nauses. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

A MASON'S AFFAIR

I have been troubled for a number of years with kidney and bladder difficulty; at times have suffered a great deal with the weakness caused by the inflammation and intense pains in the back and loins. I tried many medicines that were recommended, but none of them seemed to reach my case until one day I related my case to one of our druggits here in Auburn. Mr. Smith was very urgent that I should try Hunt's Remedy, for he knew of many who had used it with wonderful success purchased a bottle and used it, and found a good deal of benefit, and commenced to improve rapidgained strength and vitality, and after using four bettles I have been completely cured, and have re mmended it to others, and give this statement voluntarily, believing that, from my own case, Junt's Remedy is all that is recommended, and you can use this as you choose for the benefit of the WILLIAM C. CLARK. Mason & wilder, 83 Van Anden St., Auburn, N. Y.

LABOR A BURDEN.

For a number of years my wife has been a severe sufferer at times with indigestion and kidney an iver troubles. She had such severe pains in the back that she at times became very much debilitated, and the least labor was a burden. I feared that it would terminate in Bright's Disease, as there were the symptoms. She had no appetite at times. She tried several medicines, but only received emporary relief from any of them until she commenced using Hunt's Remedy, which was recommended to us by druggist Smith of Auburn, saying that it had been used by a good many with the greatest success for the cure of kidney, liver and bladder troubles. She commenced using it, and ound by the use of only one bottle she had been elieved of the pains in her back, had regained her appetite, and could rest well and attend to her isehold duties, and we can truly say that Hunt's emedy is a most wonderful medicine, and cheerfully recommend it to the public.

THE WRECKERS AT WORK

The democratic party represents a handsom majority of the people of this country; but Let us hope the example of the Englsh lords the cumbersome electoral machinery together with an affliction of democratic wreckers has til a little scientific knowledge is shown in obstructed the will of the people, and down to this time kept the government in the hands of the minority. In nearly every close state there are democratic wreckers - men who prefer to ruin the party if they cannot rule it. New York has had an abundance of similarly afflicted. If the party could be rid next year. The time has arrived to let the men who put personal ambition before the public good, know and feel in what contempt and disfavor they are held by the honest masses of the party. The wrecker the end of seven years. of this year, with the great battle of 1884 in plain sight, should, if possible, be doubly punished.

RUMORS OF A GREAT COMBINATION.

"Certain it is." says the New York Financial Chronicle in its leading article, "that the south is the great railroad chess-board at pres. ent. For a long time it has been apparent that the south was attracting increasing attention on the part of railroad capitalists."

ern railroad situation at considerable length. Mr. Gould must have, it says, an Atlantic outlet. It gives no credence to the rumor that he proposes to secure the control of the Louisville and Nashville, and therefore of the Georgia Central system as such an outlet, because this route to the seaboard would be circuitous. It did not occur to the Chronicle writer that the status of the State road would be an obstacle to such a project. The lease is rapidly expiring, and a scramble may take place for its possession, the result being, of course, uncertain. The Central could gain a connection in Alabama with the Louisville lines, but the route would not be by any means a bee-line

But, suggests the Financial Chronicle, may not the Seney people and Mr. Gould have a common aim and understanding? "Or," it goes on to say, "is it not possible that they are working towards one and the same goal, and that the better to attain it a certain and separate piece of work has been assigned to each? The Seneys control the East Tennes. see now, and have definitely secured the Richmond and Danville and the Memphis and Charleston. To complete their part of the contract they probably want only the Nor folk and Western, with its ally, the Shenan, doah Valley. The Norfolk and Western would be valuable and desirable for many reasons. The Seneys apparently are taking no interest in the property, but neither did they seem to be in the Memphis and Charleston. Yet when control of the latter road was finally obtained, President Thomas admitted that they had been quietly 'picking up the stock the street' for some time in The same policy is not impossible with Norfolk and Western, and the possession of an opposition line to that road in the Richmond and Danville serves as a useful feint to that end. On the other hand, Mr. as well as Mr. Thurman. And why did the Gould's part of the compact might be to se- Sun omit the name of Governor Cleveland cure possession of the Louisville and Nash- whose chances are worth more perhaps than ville and the Georgia Central, and possibly another system. That accomplished, the two syndicates could unite forces, making a combination controlling the entire railroad sys. the situation next June may be very different tanooga and St. Louis, the Georgia, the Georgia Central, the East Tennessee, the Memphis and Charleston, the Richmond and Danville, the Norfolk and Western, and the Shenandoah Valley. Only two systems of any con equence would remain outside-the Chesa eake and Ohio, running east and west, and the Erlanger roads, running north and outh.'

Sensational statements or speculative operaions have not heretofore characterized the road columns of the Financial Chronicle and for this reason we spread before our readers its theory about movements in southern railroad stocks. This much only is certain-we are at the mercy of the railroad ords, and we will not know just where we stand or how much of a chance will remain to us, until these people have got all they want and divided the spoils among them selves.

COOKERY IN OUR SCHOOLS.

The "Lords of the committee of council of Jucation," in London have officially recogized cooking by making it one of the ciences to be taught in English schools. It is to be taught as a part of the science of hygiene. It is very properly a branch of that science; for upon cooking depends the concrimes. Her detectives are only outrivalled dition of the stomach, that great central controlling organ of the human system. The number of stomachs that have been ruined by unwholesome bread, greasy meats and iron-clad pies will never be known; and for the sake of the consciences of the ignorant but innocent wrongdoers, let us hope bygones will be bygones.

But the welfare of our race in the future does concern us. The slow poisoning that makes people cadaverous and pimply and dyspeptic should be stopped. The era of in South Carolina, by claiming that there badly made bread, fried steaks and sloppy tea or coffee should be ended. Every woman should know how to cook whether she is compelled by circumstances to do so or not; fo we have an unsolved and unsolvable servant girl problem on our hands, and no housekeep er is at all secure who is not herself able to cook a wholesome and acceptable meal.

And why should not cooking be taught in the public schools? It is popular now to depractical, that it should be more closely adapted to the life pursuits of scholars. The school of the future is to embrace workshops and our boys are to go from them to the advanced technical schools. This much for our boys, who are to earn food. Does it not logi cally follow that our girls who are to handle the food, should be instructed in the elementary principles of the culinary science while at school? There are many plain and indis putable things about edibles that should be impressed upon the minds of both boys and girls; but the hope of a thorough reform in our cooking depends upon the instruction of our girls. If we once litt cookery up to the plane of arts and sciences, where it belongs, and where, so far as the good of the human race is concerned, it should have first place there will be no trouble in getting the girl of the future to study it. The new science would then become popular and even fashionable. of education will spread in this country, unevery household meal, and the human stom ach holds a high place in our hygiene.

VELLOW PINE

Professor Sargent, a Canadian naturalist, demonstrates in a contribution to an English periodical, that the supply of white pine in them, and just now Ohio and New Jersey are the United States will be exhausted in a few years. Including the small and inferior trees of its wreckers, it would sweep the country the supply does not exceed 80,000 million feet, and the annual consumption of the country is now 10,000 million feet. Allowing for an increase in consumption, white pine will be both scarce and high should be given to understand that will soon be none, unless yellow pine his offense is unpardonable, and the wreckers is rapidly brought into use to eke out the failng crop. Th be consumed so long as it can be had, and that in about five years there will be a white pine famine. The hour of yellow pine will then have come, and the lumber that is now slow of sale at ten dollars a thousand at the mill will be worth at least twice that amount and possibly thrice it. We write this to urge our readers who have standing yellow pine to preserve it as something The Financial Chronicle discusses the south | valuable. Such timber can be turned into money within five years, and the value of a tract will soon be determined by the amount of lumber it has upon it. In a short time we will wish we had more forests instead of less; for the ax of the woodsman will follow close behind the keen-eved speculators who are already looking this way for the future timber supply of the country.

PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES.

The Louisville Courier-Journal, from com mendable journalistic motives, addressed a circular-letter to prominent democrats, asking each person addressed to name "the most available man for the democratic presidential nomination." Mr. Dana answered editorially, doubtless to the surprise, if not the disgust, of his enterprising brother in Louisville

Mr. Dana is however very explicit. He prefers William S. Holman, but any one of nine more would be acceptable, namely, Thomas F. Bayard, Benjamin F. Butler, Roswell P Flower, Abram S. Hewitt, Allen G. Thurman, Thomas A. Hendricks, Joseph E. McDonald, John M. Palmer and Samuel J. Randall. The New York World thinks no one in the Sun's list has any chance except Mr. McDonald. It disposes of the nine, on grounds that they live in too small states or in republican states.

or are otherwise unavailable. The Sun's list is, however, chiefly remarkable for the names it does not contain. There is Samuel J. Tilden, who was elected in 1876 and who has never said to the people that he will refuse a nomination in 1884. There, too. is General Hancock who carried the standard valiantly in 1880 until he got into a hack. There, also, is Judge Field who proposes to deal kindly with the south. Ohio, the new mother of presidents, will not be content with one name in any list of presidential aspirants. for she has Senator Pendleton and Mr. Payne

The two states already furnish five each, and a pivotal list of ten would read as follows: Samuel J. Tilden, Thomas A. Hendricks, Grover Cleveland, Daniel W. Voorhees, Abram S. Hewitt, Wil liam S. Holman, Roswell P. Flower, Joseph E. McDonald, William Dorsheimer and W. H. Niblack. Brown resisted and his resistence was so stubborn that one of the footpads drew the razor in order to defend himself and began an indiscriminate cutting and slashing. Brown did not retreat, but kept up his side of the fight until the razor was dropped. He managed to secure it and the footpads broke down the road in the direction of the springs. Brown, though bleeding profusely, retraced his steps to the city and gave the foregoing facts to Captain Aldridge, who at once proceeded to investigate the matter. He has proposed to extend the contraction of e some rare animals for deer of which Balti-has $30,000 worth. and instructive answers. He has also had one or two adventures. The day after his arrival a bunco starper tackled him, but very quickly realized his mistake. This afternoon another confidence man approached him and he theest-ened to knock the gentleman down Later—The proposed expedition from New York to-night to tow the camels in a seow from the Independente to New York has been abandoned on account of its danger. Mr. Curan and party will go to the steamer in the morning and an effort will be made to get the animals in a large schooner and bring them here. Should there be indications of the immediate loss of the steamer, the camels will be put overboard in the expectation that they will swim to the island. After reaching the island they will have to swim six or eight miles to the main land. It is believed they can swim the distance, and it is proposed that the head of each animal be supported during efforts from the vessel to the island and from the island to the shore by parties in surf boats.

Senator Sharon's Arrest. CHICAGO, September 17 .- Senator Sharon, of Netada, is in this city. In relation to his arrest in San Francisco, just as he was about starting east, at the reactions, just as ne was about starting east, at the instance of a woman who claims that he owed her money, he said that it was surely a case of blackmail, instigated by an ex-Australian convict who scribbles for a law publication in San Francisco, out of revenue because he caused this woman to be ejected from the Palace hote! He avers hat he never borrowed money from her, and says hat he will fight the case through to the end.

THE DEAREST SPOT ON EARTH.

We talked of wide domains and spreading lands, And towering castles builded by the sea; When rising up, I cried, with lifted hands, "Behold! I am the richest of the three."

"Oho! thou speak'st in jest, my friend," laughed

"These lands are mine as fas as thou canst see, And farther yet beyond the setting sun"— "Even so, I sm the richest of the three." "My wealth is hoarded up," the other spake, "In ships that hourly skim the farthest sea, And bounteous fortune follows in my wake". "This may be, yet I'm richest of the three."

"Thou hast no lands, good friend, to equal mine, No heaps of glittering ore belong to thee; No lofty halls of marvelous design— And art thou, then, the richest of the three?"

'No lands are mine, no stately halls I have, No heaps of gold, nor castle by the sea, Nor merchant-ships that bird-like skim the wave; And yet I am the richest of the three,"

Where lies," quoth one, "this treasure of such worth,

That thou art rich in spite of poverty?"
"Mine is the deare t spot of all the earth;
Wherefore I am the richest of the three. "Indeed, this fabled place we fain would see, Whereof thou dost with fond endearments lave." "Then know—the dearest spot on earth to me Is this—a little, lonely, three-foot grave."

Joking a Senator.

Last night in the session of the senate President Boynton vacated the chair and asked Senator Green take his place. The young law-maker promptly ascended the stand and was dispatching business ascended the stand and was dispatching business with a rush. Now it happens that the senator is from one of the counties most vitally affected by the Marietta and North Georgia railroad. His astonishment therefore knew no bounds when one of the secretaries read a resolution that "whereas, the senate had received un mistakable evidence that the convicts on the Marietta and North Georgia road had been woefully treated and mismanaged, therefore, be it resolved that they be taken from that company and distributed among the lesses." most solemn terms protested against the passage of the resolution

Senator DuBignon favored it, and made a powerful speech in its advocacy. Senator Meldrim also favored the resolution in strong terms. Senator Greer was growing troubled when Senator Peeples moved to "divide the question." Some senator called the ayes and nays, whereupon Senator DuBignon raised the point that the ayes and nays could not be called on a resolution.

"Oh, yes they can, yes they can," answered the protem president. The senate was going ahead to have a good deal of fun at the expense of the popular young senator, when the president resumed the chair and stopped the amusement.

It may be well to state that the senate is pretty well up with its work, and the general assembly will hardly remain in session more than a week longer.

A Sudden Death.

Miss Pauline Davis, who resides with her mother on Davis street, near the corner of Hunter, died suddenly yesterday afternoon of what was supposed to be heart disease. She gave no indication of illness until the last moment of her life and was in the yard at the time of its occurrence. She was about seventeen years of age, and was a beautiful and much loved young lady. Her sudden death has caused much sorrow among her friends. She expected to be married in a few days.

Reception Fo-Night. Colonel Richard Peters yesterday issued invita-tions to a large number of citizens, subscribers to and persons known to be interested in the rebuilding of the H. I. Kimball house, to a reception at his residence this evening at 8:15 p. m. The gathering will embrace the most prominent citizens of Atlanta, and prove a congratulatory oceasion over the prospect of the speedy resurrection of our great hostelry.

POSTAL POINTS

Superintendent of distribution Seifert has abandoned the cigar and is now smoking a pipe. Eighty postal clerks receive their pay through the Atlanta postoffice. The monthly pay roll is about $10,000.

There is a package of "Goldbeck's Musical Art" at the post flice without any address. The package arrived yesterday, and during its transit the wrapper was torn off.

The Central railroad mail train has changed, and of course the hours for closing the mail on that train changed. Patrons of the postoffice having bulletin number 4 will change the figures 6:30 to 8:30 in the schedule for train 7.

There are thirty-eight men employed in the At lanta postal service. Of these, thirty-four are voters and four are minors. Thus the republican party is robbed of four votes. Of the employes twenty-three are married and fifteen are single.

The new two-cent stamp will arrive this week With the invoice of two-cent stamps will come the stamped envelopes of the same denomination. Superindendent Seifert desires those who use the "request envelope" to send in their orders as soon as possible.

The new mail lock went into general use the first of the month. Postmaster Camp was present when the lock was selected. He says there were about seventy locks exhibited at the time the selection was made and that the different patterns were put to every conceivable test. The change in locks are made every ten years.

In e property lays to the South of the Central Presbyterian Church, and adjoins the property of Captain E. A. Werner on the North. Washington street, especially at this point, has no superior in the city of Atlanta, being thorsughly macadamized, the cars of the Atlanta street railroad passing each way every fitteen minutes, and the Capitol Park immediately in frout. What could be more desirable in a residence street? The Capitol bill has been passed providing for the erection of a Capitol building to cost One Million Dollars, and the Governor has appointed such Commissioners as are virtually a guarantee to the people of our State and City that the finest building ever constructed in the South will be located on Washington street, immediately fronting the lot now advertised for sale. In close proximity to this property are the elegant residences of many the lot now advertised for sale. In close proximit to this property are the elegant residences of man of the most prominent men in the city, the Presby terian, Episcopal, Baptist and Catholic Churche: the High Schools and the Passenger Depot, which laiter is the center of the City. The present Cer tral Presbyterian Church is to be taken down, an judging from the Architect's plans the new building will be the handsomest Church edifice in the City. Titles perfect; terms cash. SWIFTS' SPECIFIC

Is not a triumph of science, but is a reve-lation through the instinct of the untutored savage, and is a complete antidote to all kinds of Blood Poison and Skin Humor.

Swift's Specific has cured me of Scrofnla, which is hereditary in my family. I have suffered with it for many years, and have tried a great many physicians and all sorts of treatment, but to no purpose; and when I be gan to take Swift's Specific I was in a horrible condition, but thanks to this great remedy. I am rid of the disease. There is no doubt that it is the greatest medicine in existence, and I hope any who doubt will write to me.

E. C. HAWES, JR., Clarksville, Ga.

After suffering twenty-five years with a painful Dry Tetter, and trying many physicians, I was at last relieved by the use of Swift's Specific, and I cheerfully commend it to all similarly afflicted.

opened firm and advanced 1/4 to 5/4 per cent; the latter in Lake Shore; the other Vanderbilt, and Louisville and Nashville were also strong. Villards, however, was weak, and continued so throughout most the day. Northern Pacific fell off from 43% to 33% for common, and from 75 to 73% for preferred. Oregon and Transcontinental from 66 to 65. No reason is given for the decline except that the old bear party were free sellers and expect ed to break the market with the single exception of Denver. The market remained quiet but firm, and yielded only ¼ to ¾ per cent. Denver was also heavy, and ran off from 28¾ to 25½. Michigan Central fell off from 84 to 82% on sales of only 400 hares from boon until after 2 p. m. Speculation was tame and devoid of feature, but after an early decline the market cut away from weak spots, and after 2 p. m. there was more activity, and an im provement of 1/4 to 11/8 per cent took place, Lake Shore leading. Large amounts of this stock and other trunk line shares were taken by brokers usually acting for Vanderbilts. In connection with the advance in the trunk lines it is stated that the companies had more business offering than they could accommodate, and that negotiations were pending whereby opposition by the lake propellers will be withdrawn either by purchase or otherwise. Lake Shore rose to 1978; New York Central 117%; Canada Southern 55%; Michigan Central 84½; Erie 52%; Northwest 128; St. Paul 106%; Lackawanna 124%; Louisville and Nashville 51%; Missouri Pacific 10134; Kansas and Texas 271/8; Manitoba 111; Omaha 42%; Union Pacific 93; Wabash 22%; Preferred 351/4; all the best figures of the day. The advance in the general list had a stimulating effect on Villard properties, and they recovered 1/4 per cent each for Northern Pacific; common and preed to 43% and 74 respectively; 1/2 for Oregon and Transcontinental to 65%; Denver also recovered per cent to 27½. Compared with last night's clos sing, prices are ¼ to 1½ per cent higher. In spe cialties Pacific Mail rose to 36½. Transactions ag gregated 230,000 shares.

Evening — Exchange $4.82. Money 2½32. Sub-reasury balances: Coin 119,249,000: currency 7.263, 100. crovernments strong; 4½$ 112½; 4s119½; 803½. State Bonds quiet.

FINANCIAL CURIOS.

A Couple of Rare Munismatic Treasures Obtained by a Collector.

A gentleman who has something of a passion for collecting curiosities, yesterday exhibited to a Constitution reporter a receipt for a registered package addressed to a firm in iladeiphia.
"You wouldn't guess in a thousand years," said he, "what was in that package."

"Then I won't waste so much time trying.

"Well, one of the articles was a one cent copper coin of the year 1799. You know they are quite rare and nearly three weeks ago—well, the other day, the public schools opened—a neighbor's boy got it in some sort of trade from one of his school-fellows. It fell under my eyes and I examined a list of rare coins and found this one was included. I bought it from the little fellow for fifty cents on speculation, as I did not know what it was really worth. I sent a lead pencil scratching of it to Philadelphia and got an offer of $10 for it. I propose to divide the profits with the boy all the same."

"Well, what was there else in the package?"

She said that early Sunday morning while she and her husband were breakfasting in the kitchen, there was a knock upon their front deor. The old man went to the door and as he entered the front room, he saw four men, three white and one black, standing in the doorway. Three of them had on convict garb, while the fourth was attired in a pair of dark pantaloons, and a white shirt. Two of the white man had guns but these companions were unarmed. The sight of the convict guard and the guns frightened the old man but before he could utter a word the white man without the stripes said:

Whether it was taken with intent to suicide or not is not known. Marshall had been on a nine-days spree and in taking the morphine stated that he did it to induce sleep, as his system was considerably racked by dissipation. About ten days ago he took a vial and a half of laudanum to produce sleep and his wife became alarmed and called in a physician who stated that if he had taken three times that amoun no fatal effects would have followed. It may be that the advice led Marshall to have less dread of the drug. His spree continued un-til yesterday. During the day he was in front of the Journal office, where he worked, asking a companion for the loan of a dime, but de to purchase laudanum to induce sleep, of which he was much in need. His eyes were which he was much in need. His eyes were already heavy, as though he had taken some drug. He went off and proceeded to his home, in the meantime securing two bottles of laudanum. About four or five o'clock he took a bottle of the drug, and was in the act of taking another when his wife snatched it from him and poured the contents on the floor. Marshall then lay down and went to sleep. About six o'clock Mr. Lames went to sleep. About six o'clock, Mr. James Woodward, a printer, was passing the house and being an acquaintance, stopped at the gate a moment to talk to Mrs. Marshall. She
